Rio Grande Compact.

"RIO GRANDE COMPACT

Agreement between Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas as to use of Rio Grande above Fort Quitman, Tex.

"The State of Colorado, the State of New Mexico, and the State of Texas, desiring to remove all causes of present and future controversy among these States and between citizens of one of these States and citizens of another State with respect to the use of the waters of the Rio Grande above Fort Quitman, Texas, and being moved by considerations of interstate comity, have resolved to conclude a compact for the attainment of these purposes, and to that end, through their respective governors, have named as their respective commissioners

Commissioners.

Delph E. Carpenter for the State of Colorado, Francis C. Wilson for the State of New Mexico, and T. H. McGregor for the State of Texas, who, after negotiations participated in by William J. Donovan, appointed by the President as the representative of the United States of America, have agreed upon the following articles, to wit:

Article I.

"ARTICLE I

Use of terms.

"(a) The State of Colorado, the State of New Mexico, the State of Texas, and the United States of America are hereinafter designated 'Colorado,' 'New Mexico,' 'Texas,' and the 'United States,' respectively.

"Rio Grande Basin."

"(b) The term 'Rio Grande Basin' means all of the territory drained by the Rio Grande and its tributaries in Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas above Fort Quitman, Texas.

"Tributary."

"(c) The term 'tributary' means any water course the waters of which naturally flow into the channel of the Rio Grande.

"Closed Basin."

"(d) The 'Closed Basin' means that part of the San Luis Valley in Colorado where the streams and waters naturally flow and drain into the San Luis Lakes and adjacent territory, and the waters of which are not tributary to the Rio Grande.

"Domestic," "Municipal," "Agricultural."

"(e) 'Domestic' use of water has the significance which attaches to the word 'domestic' in that sense at common law. 'Municipal' use means the use of water by or through water works serving the public. 'Agricultural' use means the use of water for the irrigation of land.

"Power."

"(f) The term 'power' as applied to the use of water means all uses of water, direct or indirect, for the generation of energy.

"Spill."

"(g) 'Spill' or waste of water at a reservoir means the flowage of water over the spillway, or the release of water through outlet structures other than for domestic, municipal, or agricultural uses, and losses incident thereto.

Extent of provisions.

"The provisions hereof binding each signatory State shall include and bind its citizens, agents, and corporations, and all others engaged in, or interested in, the diversion, storage, or use of the waters of the Rio Grande in Colorado or New Mexico, or in Texas above Fort Quitman.

Article II.

"ARTICLE II

Declaration of States.

"The States of Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas hereby declare:

Settlement by treaty.

"(a) That they recognize the paramount right and duty of the United States, in the interests of international peace and harmony, to determine and settle international controversies and claims by treaty, and that when those purposes are accomplished by that means the treaty becomes the supreme law of the Nation;

Payment of costs.

"(b) That since the benefits which flow from the wise exercise of that authority and the just performance of that duty accrue to all the people, it follows as a corollary that the Nation should defray the cost of the discharge of any obligation thus assumed;

"(c) That with respect to the Rio Grande, the United States, without obligation imposed by international law and 'being moved by considerations of international comity,' entered into a treaty dated May 21, 1906 (Thirty-fourth Statutes, page 2953), with the United States of Mexico which obligated the United States of America to deliver from the Rio Grande to the United States of Mexico sixty thousand acre-feet of water annually and forever, whereby in order to fulfill that promise the United States of America, in effect, drew upon the States of Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas a draft worth to them many millions of dollars, and thereby there was cast upon them an obligation which should be borne by the Nation;

Treaty duty to deliver from Rio Grande designated amount of water to Mexico.

Vol. 34, p. 2953.

Effect on contributing States.

"(d) That for the economic development and conservation of the waters of the Rio Grande Basin and for the fullest realization of the purposes recited in the preamble to this compact it is of primary importance that the area in Colorado known as the Closed Basin be drained and the water thus recovered be added to the flow of the river, and that a reservoir be constructed in Colorado upon the river at or near the site generally described as the State Line Reservoir site. The installation of the drain will materially augment the flow of the river, and the construction of the reservoir will so regulate the flow as to remove forever the principal causes of the difficulties between the States signatory hereto; and Closed Basin in Colorado to be drained, etc.

State Line Reservoir.

"(e) That in alleviation of the heavy burden so placed upon them it is the earnest conviction of these States that without cost to them the United States should construct the Closed Basin Drain and the State Line Reservoir described in paragraph (d).

Construction thereof by United States.

"The signatory States agree that approval by Congress of this compact shall not be construed as constituting an acceptance or approval, directly, indirectly, or impliedly, of any statement or conclusion appearing in this article.

"ARTICLE III

Article III.

"(a) Colorado, under the direction and administration of its State engineer, shall cause to be maintained and operated an automatic recording stream-gauging station at each of the following points, to wit:

Stream gauging stations to be maintained.

By Colorado.

"(1) On the Rio Grande near Del Norte at the station now maintained, known and designated herein as the Del Norte gauging station (the water records from this station to include the flow diverted into the canal of the Del Norte irrigation system);

"(2) On the Rio Conejos near Mogote, a station known and designated herein as the Mogote gauging station;

"(3) On the Rio Grande at or near the Colorado-New Mexico interstate line, a station known and designated herein as the interstate gauging station; and

"(4) Such other station or stations as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of this compact.

"(b) New Mexico, under the direction and administration of its State engineer, shall cause to be maintained and operated an automatic stream-gauging station at each of the following points, to wit:

By New Mexico.

"(1) On the Rio Grande at the station known as Buckman;

"(2) On the Rio Grande at San Marcial;

"(3) On the Rio Grande at the Elephant Butte Reservoir outlet; and

"(4) Such other station or stations as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of this compact.

By Texas.

"(c) Texas, under the direction and administration of its duly constituted official, shall cause to be maintained and operated an automatic stream-gauging station at each of the following points, to wit:

"(1) On the Rio Grande at Courchesne;

"(2) On the Rio Grande at Tornillo; and

Said bonds shall be sold in such manner and at such price as the commission may determine, such price to be not less than the price at which the interest yield basis will equal 6 per centum per annum as computed from standard tables of bond values, and the face amount thereof shall be so calculated as to produce, at the price of their sale, the estimated cost of the bridge and its approaches, and the land, easements, and appurtenances used in connection therewith and, in the event the ferry or ferries are to be acquired, also the estimated cost of such ferry or ferries and the lands, easements, and appurtenances used in connection therewith. The cost of the bridge and ferry or ferries shall be deemed to include interest during construction of the bridge, and for twelve months thereafter, and all engineering, legal, architectural, traffic surveying, and other expenses incident to the construction of the bridge or the acquisition of the ferry or ferries, and the acquisition of the necessary property, and incident to the financing thereof, including the cost of acquiring existing franchises, rights, plans, and works of and relating to the bridge, now owned by any person, firm, or corporation, and the cost of purchasing all or any part of the shares of stock of any such corporate owner if in the judgment of the commission such purchases should be found expedient. All tolls and other revenues from said bridge are hereby pledged to such uses and to the application thereof hereinafter in this section required. After payment or provision for payment therefrom of all such cost of maintaining, repairing, and operating and the reservation of an amount of money estimated to be sufficient for the same purpose during an ensuing period of not more than six months, the remainder of tolls collected shall be placed in the sinking fund, at intervals to be determined by the commission prior to issuance of the bonds. If at the time of such conveyance, the commission or its successors shall not have disposed of such ferry or ferries, the same shall be disposed of by sale as soon as practicable, at such price and upon such terms as the commission or its successors may determine, but in making any such sale preference shall be given to the Canadian interests and thereafter to the United States interests before any sale except to such respective interests.
